

Today is May 5th, and we now know that the Shelter-in-Place has been extended. These are unusual times. Although all six Bay Area counties extended the Shelter-in-Place Order through May 31, 2020, new updates to the order allow for some parts of our economy to return to business. Construction can resume with safety protocols. Gardeners can provide residential services, and real estate transactions can resume with restrictions on in-person viewings.

As we continue to get through this pandemic together, we want to provide up-to-date information and resources available to help you access financial guidance and support through the CARES Act:
